New Lighthouse Lamps,

All who gazed on the lighthouse at Anastasia noted with surprise that the light was much brighter and whiter than usual. This was due to the fact that a new light has been installed and it is a great improvement over the old lamp, giving a far more powerful light. The new lamp was installed by Lampist A. Degan, who will install the same kind at Mosquito Inlet, Cape Canaveral and Jupiter.

Not only in brilliancy does the new lamp excel the old, but it uses but one-fourth the quantity of fuel. It is a kerosene vapor lamp and of much higher power than the old light, but the candlepower has not yet been determined. The flash will remain the same, the only new feature being the installation of the vapor lamp.

Mr. Degan arrived here Saturday night and has been at work since installing the new lamp. He left this morning for Mosquito Inlet where he will replace the old light with one of the new design.—St. Augustine Record.

Scalded With a Hot Iron,

Hot Weather Dont's

Don't go around telling what your thermometer registers. Ananias was looked upon as a truthful man until he began that.

Don't imagine that a hot wave comes solely for your benefit.

Don't tell how you suffered with the heat last night. What in blazes do the rest of us care?

Don't tell that your grandfather cradled three acres of wheat on the hottest day of 1812 and never sweat a hair.

Don't hump yourself for a glass of cold beer every half hour and leave your wife and children to drink tepid water.

Don't wait at your gate to get off a car joke on the ice man. He is leaving you short by five pounds every day, and the joke is really on you.

Don't tell how you got sunstruck at the battle of Gettysburg. It might be hard for you to name the regiment you were in.

Don't put on a fur cap and overcoat under the idea that you will be regarded as an eccentric. Folks will simply call you an ass.

Don't fan yourself. A fan brings a breeze, but the exertion offsets it.

Don't talk about the snowbanks of last winter or some one will remember that you were too lazy to shovel the beautiful off your sidewalks.

Don't ask anybody if it is—?

It is useless, he's a hog, and the query was played out years ago. Just conduct yourself like a decent, Christian gentleman and wait for a change in the weather. If you must bake and roast and stew and fry then keep it to yourself and don't drag the rest of us in.—Baltimore Sun.
